Madrid, June 26.

IN our laſt we gave you an account that the Prince of Parma was made choice of to command the Men of War this Crown deſigns to put to Sea; but at preſent it is ſaid at Court that he is named to Succeed the Duke de Villa Hermoſa in the Government of the Spaniſh Netherlands. The Duke de Montalto is returning thither, to exerciſe his Command of General of the Horſe.

Genoua, June 29. Yeſterday returned from the Riviera, the True-Love Laden with Oyles; while ſhe was lading at Oneglia, five French Men of war and two Fire-ſhips appeared, which the Maſter and his company ſuppoſing to be Algierines, left their Spip and went aſhoar, but diſcovering their miſtake returned again. The ſaid French Men of War put into Vada, thirty Miles to the Weſtward, and two days ſince they ſailed again from thence to the Eaſtward, and are ſtill in ſight: It's believed they expect the 12 Galleys deſigned for theſe Coaſts. Two days ſince parted from hence a Dutch Man of War, with ſeven Merchant Ships under his Convoy, bound home. It is ſaid the French Galleys are at Villa Franca.

Warſaw, June 28. While the Miniſters here ſpend their time in Conferences, and in Treating of a League between this Crown and Moſcovy, without Proſpect of Concluding it, the Turks, according to the Advices we receive from all hands, are advancing towards our Frontiers, having aſſigned their Rendevouz near Caminiec. We are expecting an account from Prince Radzeville our Ambaſſador at Rome, of the Succeſs he has made in his Negotiation there, which will have a great Influence upon the Reſolutions of this Court.

Francfort, July 4. The Complaints which have been ſo often repeated to the Dyet at Ratisbonne by the Elector Palatine concerning the Proceedings of the French, have not hitherto had any effect, nor indeed can it be otherwiſe expected in the preſent poſture of things, when the French have an Army in the Field, and that on the other ſide, the ſeveral Princes of the Empire, even thoſe moſt concerned, are unarmed, at leaſt have not a Body of Men together to oppoſe their Deſigns. The Diſcourſe of the Emperors holding a meeting with the Electors and other Princes of the Empire, in order to the taking ſuch Reſolutions as the preſent Conjuncture may ſtand in need of, is revived again, though probably with as little ground for it, as it was firſt raiſed upon.

Strasburg, July 3. Count Manſell, the Emperors Envoy to the French King, continues ſtill at Augsburg, from whence he ſent ſome days ſince a Gentleman to the Baron de Monclar, Lieutenant General for the French King in Alſace, to know of him whether he might proceed on his Journey, after having been ſo long delayed in it. The French Troops continue very much to vex the Inhabitants of the Palatinate, and have poſſeſſed themſelves of another ſmall place.

Bruſſels, July 9. We expect our next Letters from Spain will bring us the Declaration of a new Governor of theſe Provinces, the Duke of Fuliers having it's ſaid declined the Overture that was made to him. Great Preparations are making at Cambray and Valenciennes for the reception of the French Court, which will part from St. Germains the 13th or 14th Inſtant. Our Letters from Liege confirm what we told you in our laſt, of the French having laid two Bridges over the Meuſe at Dinant; it's probable we may tell you in our next that their Troops have paſſed that River, which thoſe parts, and eſpecially the Country of Fuliers, are not a little diſturbed at.

Hague, July 9. The Spaniſh Envoy has preſented a Memorial to the States General, wherein he thanks them in the name of the King his Maſter for the part they take in his Intereſts, and prays them to continue their good Offices to prevent the Inconveniencies which may ariſe in caſe the moſt Chriſtian King continues to inſiſt upon the Declaration made by his Commiſſioners at
